The beasts all stop, ears pricked, alert,
As something skulks beneath the dirt.

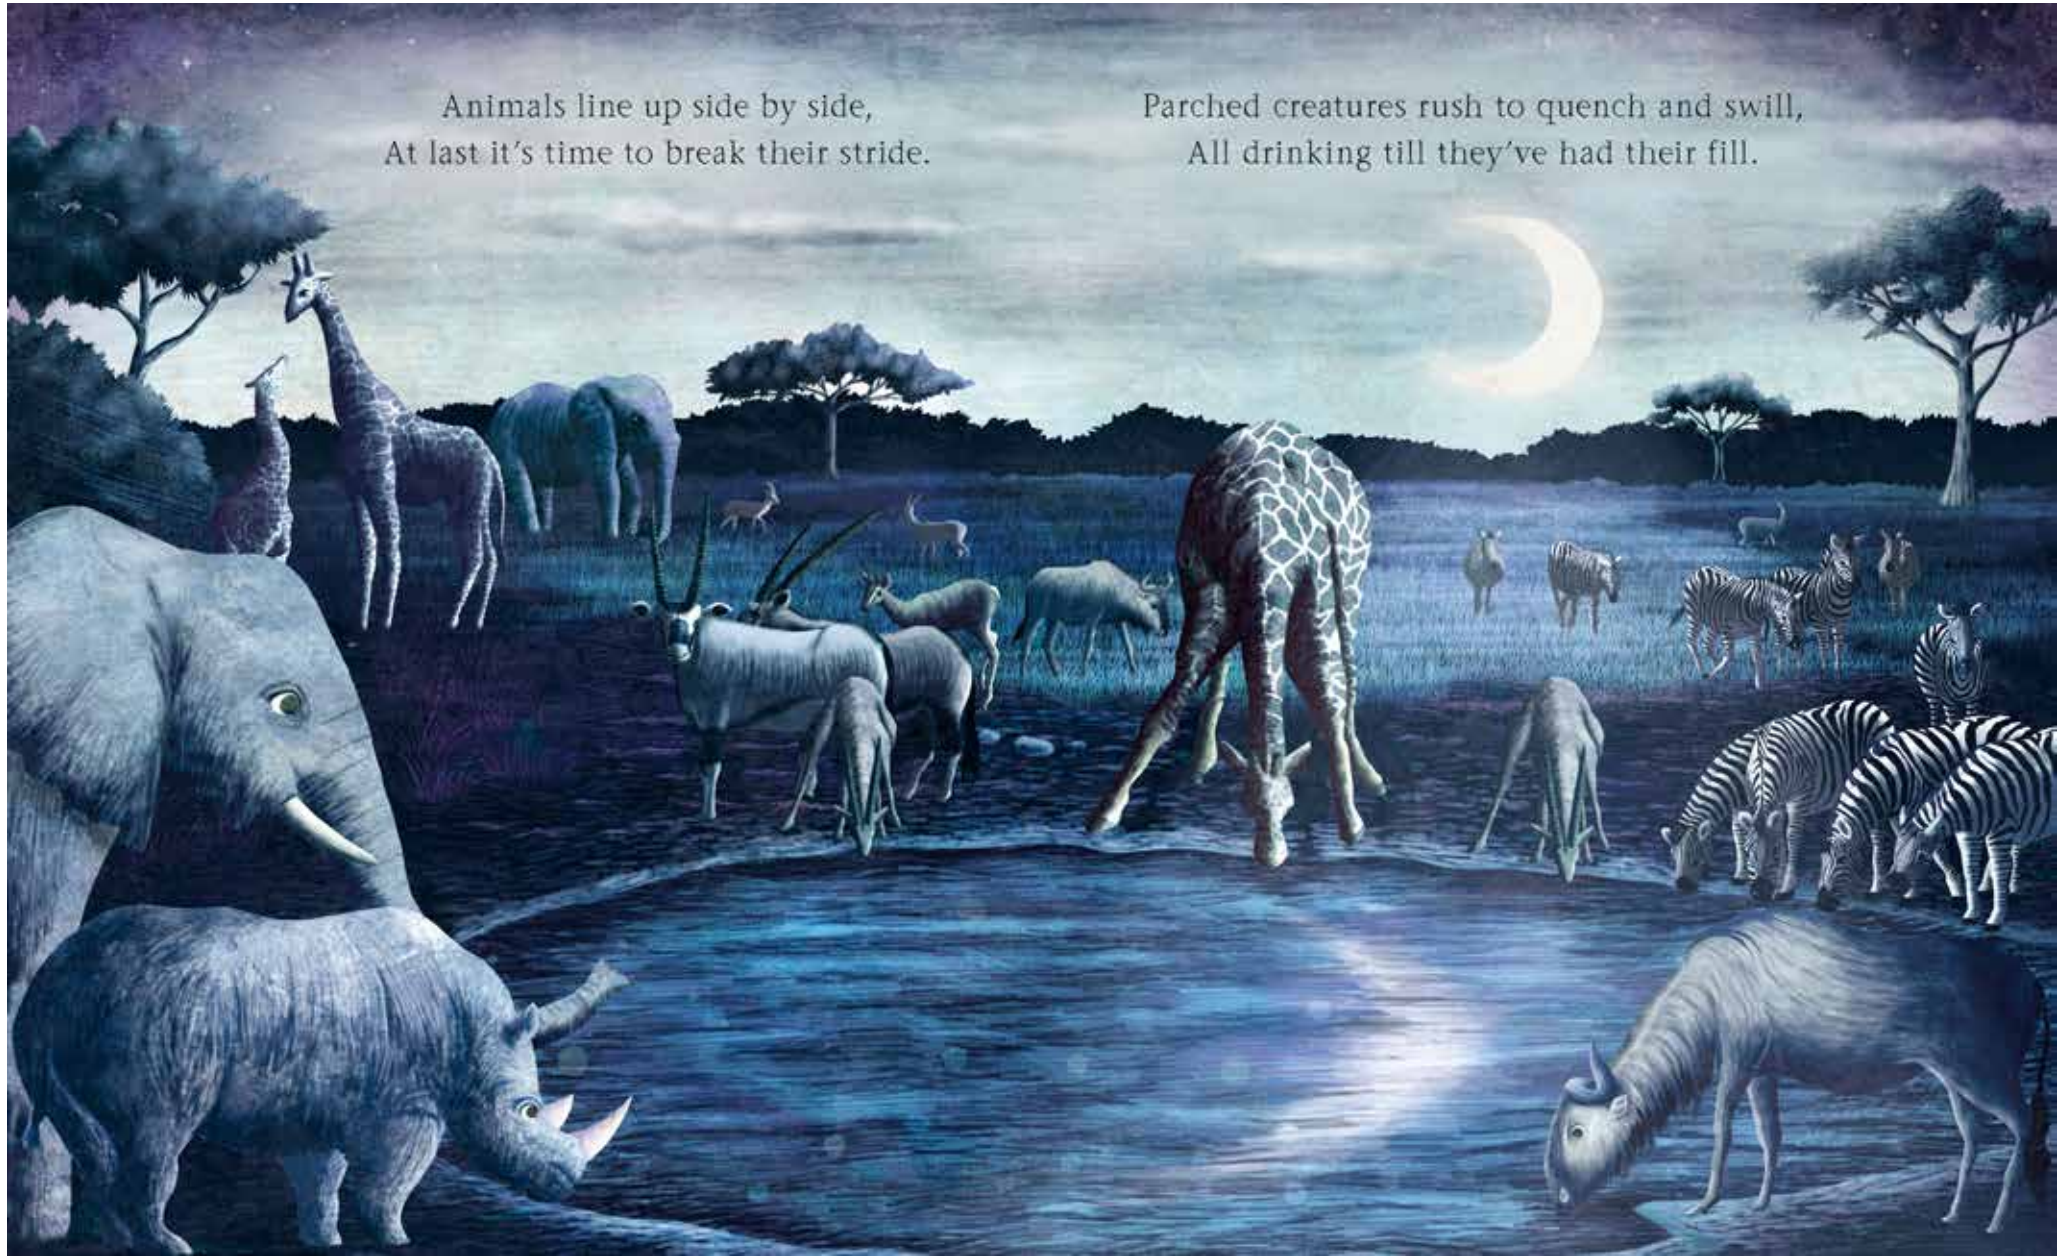

They rush and swim, they cannot rest,
For this is nature's greatest test.

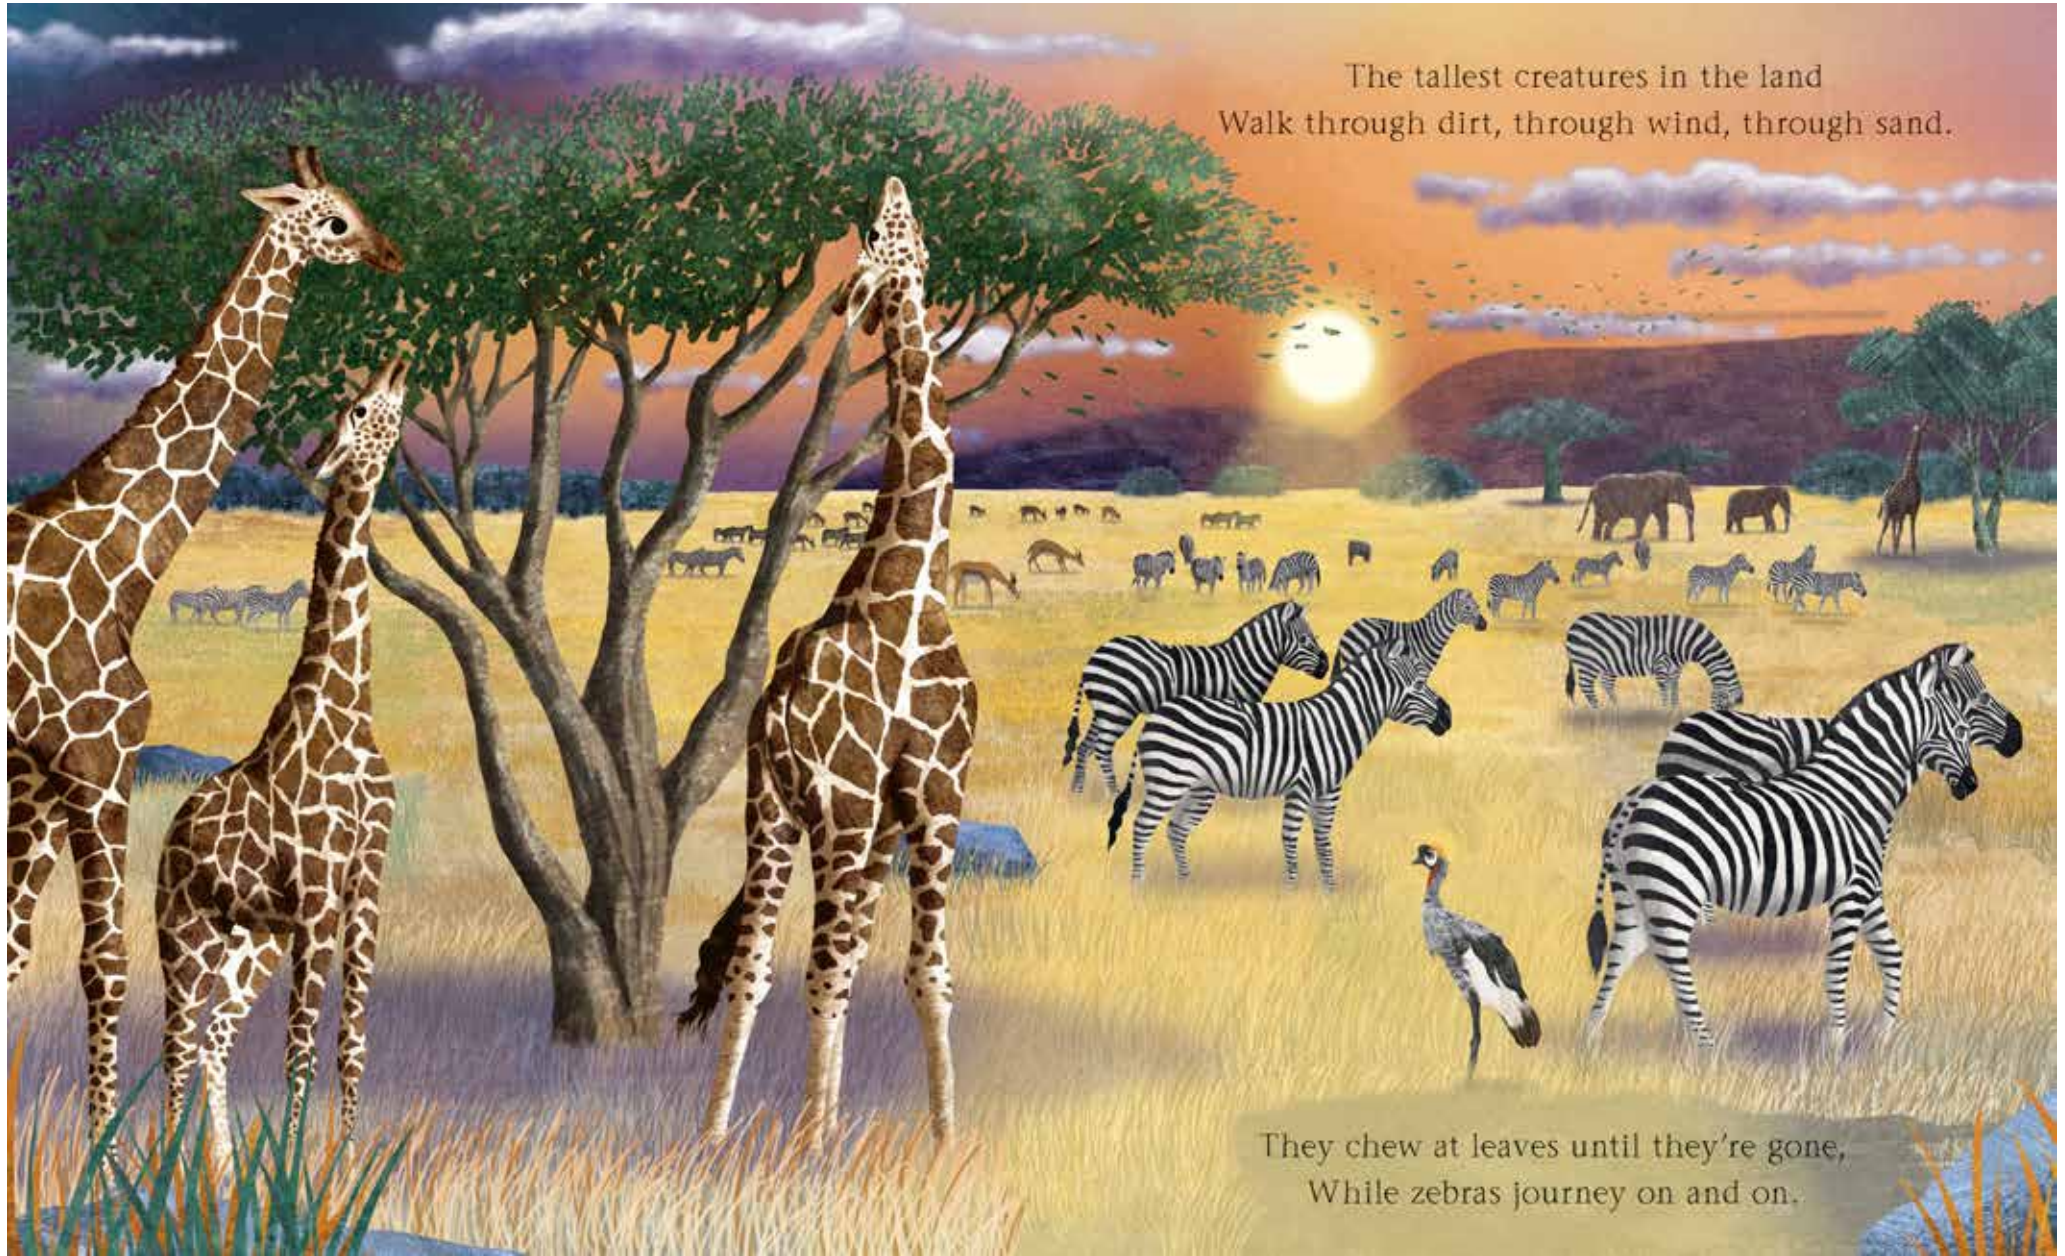

Animals line up side by side,
At last it's time to break their stride.

Parched creatures rush to quench and swill,
All drinking till they've had their fill.

The tallest creatures in the land
Walk through dirt, through wind, through sand.

They chew at leaves until they're gone,
While zebras journey on and on.

Wenn du groß bist,
zeige ich dir die Welt.
Hell und bunt.

Wenn kleine Tiere groß werden,
ist das fast wie bei uns Menschen:
Bei Mama ist es kuschelig warm und man wird satt und wächst. Papa beschützt.
Und von der ganzen Familie kann man vieles
lernen, das man später fürs Leben braucht.
Denn irgendwann kommt die Zeit, in der man auf eigenen Beinen stehen muss und seine eigenen Wege geht.

Mit emotionalen Bildern von Hanako Clulow, poetisch erzählt von Anna Taube.
